

Zendesk Transparency Report

Current as of: August 29, 2022

ABOUT OUR TRANSPARENCY REPORT

Zendesk, like many technology companies, occasionally receives requests from law enforcement agencies in the United States and elsewhere, seeking customer information. Such requests may take the form of a subpoena, court order, search warrant, or National Security Process Letter. Zendesk must comply with valid governmental requests for personal information.

At the same time, Zendesk cares deeply about maintaining our customers' trust. One way it does so is to inform Zendesk customers and the public about governmental requests to which it responds. To do so, we have prepared this transparency report.

This transparency report provides information relating to law enforcement requests for customer information that we received during the first half of 2022 (from January 1, 2022, through June 30, 2022). Zendesk will provide updated reports approximately every six months for the prior six-month period.

For more information regarding Zendesk's approach to responding to requests for information from law enforcement and other government agencies, please see our Government Data Request Policy here.

Requests from Non-U.S. Law Enforcement and Governmental Entities

Although Zendesk is located in the United States, we have a corporate presence in several other countries. When we receive requests from non-U.S. governments we work with U.S. and non-U.S. counsel to determine the validity of the request and our obligation to respond under United States and other applicable laws.

Type of Request	Number of Requests	Number of Data Disclosures
Informal requests	1	0

Definitions

- Content Data: Includes the contents of End-Users' communications with an Account such as the contents of Zendesk Support Tickets and Zendesk Chats. Content data is generally considered Service Data as defined in Zendesk's Master Subscription Agreement.
- Non-Content Data: All data that is not Content Data. It can include Account Information as defined in Zendesk's Privacy Notice (such as Account Owner name and contact information, Account billing information, length of Service, types of Services utilized, and account login information). This type of information is also called "Basic Subscriber Information" and must be produced in response to a valid government subpoena. Additionally, in response to a court order, Zendesk may also have to produce Non-Content metadata related to End-Users' communications with an Account.
- Subpoena: A compulsory legal demand for the production of documents.
- Court Order: An order issued by a judge upon a finding that there are reasonable grounds to believe that the information sought is relevant and material to an ongoing criminal investigation.

- Search Warrant: An order issued by a court at the formal request of law enforcement and upon a finding of probable cause. A search warrant is required to obtain Content Data.
- MLAT: Stands for “mutual legal assistance treaty.” Zendesk requires that non-U.S. government entities use appropriate international legal process to obtain data processed by Zendesk on behalf of a customer.
- National Security Letters: A national security letter issued under 18 U.S.C. § 2709.
- FISA Orders: An order or request issued under the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (50 U.S.C. § 1801, et seq.) for user information issued in the U.S.
